TEMA	PREPOSITIONS OF PLACE
-------------	-----------------------

Contextualización

PREPOSITIONS OF PLACE

In front of A band plays their music in front of an audience.

- The teacher stands in front of the students.

Behind

Behind is the opposite of in front of. It means at the back (part) of something.

- When the teacher writes on the whiteboard, the students are behind him (or her).

Between

Between normally refers to something in the middle of two objects or things (or places).

- There are mountains between Chile and Argentina.

Across From / Opposite

Across from and Opposite mean the same thing. It usually refers to something being in front of something else BUT there is normally something between them like a street or table. It is similar to saying that someone (or a place) is on the other side of something.

- I live across from a supermarket (= it is on the other side of the road)

Next to / Beside

Next to and Beside mean the same thing. It usually refers to a thing (or person) that is at the side of another thing.

- At a wedding, the bride stands next to the groom.
- He walked beside me as we went down the street.

Near / Close to

Near and Close to mean the same thing. It is similar to next to / beside but there is more of a distance between the two things.

- The receptionist is near the front door.
- Our house is close to a supermarket.

On

On means that something is in a position that is physically touching, covering or attached to something.

- The clock on the wall is slow.

Above / Over

Above and Over have a similar meaning. They both mean "at a higher position than X" but above normally refers to being directly (vertically) above you.

- Planes normally fly above the clouds.
- There is a halo over my head. ;)

Under / Below

Under and Below has a similar meaning. They mean at a lower level. (Something is above it).

- Your legs are under the table.
- How long can you stay under the water?
- Miners work below the surface of the Earth.
